AMERICAN COMPETITION

TO BE RECKONED WITH

Industrial Situation is Causing Grave Fears Among the British Manufacturers—Attitude of Workmen.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A cable to the Sun from London says:

The alarm, not to say panic, which prevails in several important branches of British industry on account of the enormous growth of American competition now occupies the foremost place in public attention. It is discussed on all platforms by leaders of opinion and is the chief topic of the serious press. There is not the slightest doubt that a thorough awakening of manufacturers in nearly all lines has already taken place, but the contrary is the case among the rank and file of the workers, who really control the situation. The sharp rise of the cost of living is impelling the latter to increase their demands, to the still further embarrassment of employers.

The situation would be radically changed if labor's request for high wages was accompanied by an offer of greater effort and increased output during working hours. This, however, has in no case been suggested. On the other hand, it will be strenuously resisted, and the policy of minimum work for standard pay will be persisted in, according to the present outlook, until disaster to British trade has been irretrievably accomplished.

Lord Rosebery delivered a strong warning last week, and yesterday Herbert Asquith, member of parliament, told the heads of the chamber of commerce what to expect. He admitted that the present prosperity of Great Britain was enormous and unprecedented, but he pointed out that England was not holding her own. Germany and the United States had stepped from the rear to the front ranks. Instead of England enjoying supremacy of trade, as was confidently predicted half a century ago, she was now fighting for every inch of ground with all her available strength in every international market.

"There are some obvious reasons for this," said Asquith, "not due to shortcomings on our part. We have long ceased to enjoy relative superiority in the natural advantages with which we started upon the race. Look across the Atlantic and what do we see? A nation which in point of numbers in almost if not quite double our own nation, sprung to a large extent from the same stock, nurtured among the same free traditions, endowed in at least as full measure as we with facility in invention and the spirit of enterprise, occupying a country unrivaled in extent and with diversity of natural resources, and enjoying throughout the whole of that vast territory the incalculable boon of free trade. Can we wonder that such a nation, under such circumstances and conditions, is the most formidable of our industrial competitors?"

AN AMBITIOUS PRINCESS.

Evidently Hopes to Some Day Be Empress of the French.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from St. Petersburg says:

The betrothal of Prince Louis Napoleon Bonaparte to Grand Duchess Helen, daughter of the Grand Duke Vladimir, is officially announced. It could not fail to strengthen the Bonapartist cause in France, and correspondingly weaken the republican government.

Prince Louis, who has been serving for the last fifteen years in the Russian army, is a general of cavalry at the head of the crack regiment of the czar's lancers of the guard. He has all along been treated at the court as a member of the Russian imperial family circle, and enjoys in a particular degree the friendship of the czar.

The younger of the two sons of the late Prince Jerome Napoleon, who made him the heir to his political rights, having disinherited and disowned the elder son, Victor, his career appeals to the French people, who have always had a weakness for "the soldier on horseback," whom they now find represented in the Russian cavalry officer. Prince Louis has long been attentive to the Grand Duchess Helen, a wayward princess who two years ago created a sensation by jilting the heir to the throne of Baden on the eve of the day appointed for the wedding, and who has since been credited with an infatuation for her cousin, Grand Duke Michael, younger brother and heir to the czar.

Inasmuch as the orthodox Russian church strictly prohibits marriage between first cousins, the duchess has now apparently made up her mind that the next best thing is to become a possible empress of the French.

The Kindergartens.

The regular monthly meeting of the Free Kindergarten Association was held yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. parlors. Reports of all the kindergartens were read, all of them giving accounts of a successful Thanksgiving Day. The Portuguese kindergarten will give a Christmas tree. The attendance at the Palama kindergarten is running lower, owing to bad weather. The South street kindergarten has been run out of its own quarters by the rain and is meeting in Castle Home.

HOW TO ADDRESS LETTERS.

They Must Be Sent to a Postoffice. Regular Mails Fixed.

Hereafter mail to be forwarded from Honolulu postoffice must be addressed to a postoffice and not to a locality. Letters not properly addressed will be returned to the sender where his address is given on the envelope and when the sender cannot be located the letters will be sent to the dead letter office. Papers will be burned. Under these circumstances it behooves correspondents on the islands to find out what their postoffice address is and quickly inform their correspondents here. A complete list of all the postoffices in the Territory is as follows:

Oahu—Aiea, Hauula, Heela, Honolulu, Honolulu, Kahuiki, Pearl City, Wahiawa, Waianae, Waiawa, Waiapu, Waimanalo.
Lanai—Keomuku.
Maui—Hana, Hamoa, Hamakua, Kaupo, Kahului, Kipahulu, Keokea, Keanae, Kihel, Lahaina, Makawao, Makena, Nahiiku, Paia, Peahi, Spreckelsville, Wailuku, Waihee, Ulupala, Kula, Pauwela.

Hawaii—Hakalau, Hilo, Hilea, Honokaa, Honuapo, Hookena, Hoopuloa, Honoumuli, Kailua, Kalapana, Kapoho, Kawaihae, Kealahou, Keauhou, Kohala, Kukuiahae, Laupahoehoe, Mahukona, Naalehu, Napoopoo, Ooia, Oia, Oia Plantation, Paauilo, Papaikou, Pahala, Papaloa, Pepeekeo, Punaluu, Volcano House, Waimea, Waiohinu.

Kauai—Elele, Hanalei, Hanapepe, Koloa, Kealia, Kekaha, Kilauea, Lihue, Makawili, Mana, Waimea.
Molokai—Kalaupapa, Kalawao, Kamalo, Kaunakakai, Pukou.

The regular mails in future will be forwarded only by the regular mail steamers as follows:

For Kauai, per steamer W. G. Hall; for windward Hawaii ports, steamer Kinai; for Kona-Kau ports, steamer Kinai; for Maui, Claudine and Maui; for Molokai and Lanai, steamer Lehua.

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia, Duchesne county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croup has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., general agents for Territory of Hawaii.
